CRINOLINE AND HATS .- The Naw York Post chronicles the important fact that hoops "are going ont," and says the fashion which resisted for some years the vigorous and pertinaeons assaults of the caricaturists, the old fogies, and the class of wiseaeres who keep count of the number of people annually burned to death from different causes, of the was'e perpetrated by the wearing of useless enat huttons, and such like statistical odds and ends, has at last succumbed to the decrees of that mysterious personago who invents new tashions. As hoops are thus doomed, we may be permitted, before their final withdrawal | himself. Into the wasto box, to say a good word for one THE ENERY ATTACK IN OVERWHELMING FORCE. of the few fashions of modern days which, moderately used, are seus ble and healthful, and seem to srise not from absurd and unressonable caprice, but from an intelligent appreciation of means to secure comfort and grace. We do not mean to approve the extravsgant and unlimited extension of hooped skirts; there is no reason why four women should occupy as much space in an omnihus or in a church pew as six men. Batladies of good taste were never misled into making balloons of themselves, and, in this country, at lesst, all women with any pretcusions to skill in dress have worn only crinoline in moderate are roper extent.

desirable, we think, that the hooped irt should continue to he worn; for, properly fastened with braces and suspenders, it is, by the universal evidence of women, convenient, healthful, and very much more p'essant and less straining to the frame than any other contrivance of female "gear." With he old style of undergarments-now it seems about to be re-introduced-the hips bore almost the whole weight of the heavy clothing worn by women. The strain was placed upon the weakest and most essily injured part of the body, and with numerons evil results, as any physician will certify. Moreover, the hooped skirt is cool in summer, and in winter a weight of clothing can be worn with it which would be painful and injurious if woru We hope that the good sense of American

And whils we are on this subject we venture to speak also a word in favor of the hnts which were so generally worn this summer and antumn by women. of our women for many year, and nothing of a head covering. The hat shades the eyes om the gi -- of he sun, while the bonue does not; it leaves the back of the head and meck bare and cool, while the bonnet, with its absurd cape, carefully covers these parts; and lastly, it can be put on and takon off without the necessity of a special rearrangement of the hair; whereas, when a lady "goes up stairs only to put oo her honnet," the fact is that ahe takes down and puts up her hair-if it he abundant-and puts heraelf to a great deal of brouble, and the luckless gentleman who is waiting to go out with her to a needless waste

Many persons do not recognize the fact that the honnet of the present day is not an origiual creation, but simply a mis-shapen bat. Take a common "flat," such as school-girls wore some years ago, turn up the rim in front, trim off the rim behind and turn that down. bring the sides together on the cheeks hy means of riblian, and you have at once a honnet such as our grendfathers thought "a darling" and "a very sweet thing indeed." Their granddaughters wnu'd call it a "coal-scuttle"; bnt, ungninly as it looks, it is n more sensible rivance than that which the milliners imupon credulous womankind to-day. And no wonder, cither; the "coal-scuttle" is much nearer the type of women's head gear than the present bonnet, which is only a deprayed and idiotic descendent of the original hat.

commend this hint to any millioer of rough to make use of it; and we beg our female triends, if they want to look ynung and fresh, if they want their hends to be comfortnbly cool in snmmer, and if they prize convenience in apparel, to he faithful to the hat.

cavalry arm is at last fully recognized by our military directors. At the outset of the rehellion the Confederates were vastly our superiors in thia particular. The Philadelphia Bulletin explains that many of our best cavalry officers deserted their colors, and crossing in perfecting large hodies of men in the tacties of their peculiar branch. In the North it ore difficult to organize cavalry regis which might prave effective for immediate service, and for an extended and paiuful peried it was found impossible to compete with the activity of our opponents. A change, however, took place, and by constant drilling, naderable officers, our mounted men were only made them equal, but superior to the smed horsemen of Stuart, Lee, and other rabel leaders. In every engagement, however trivial, we drove them from the field of contest or by stratagem disconcerted their plans. Finally one rebel commander after another acknowledged onr superiority, and declined to engage in combats, which they knew by painful experience could terminate in but e way. "Fall back" has been their rule in irginia, and so faithfully have they observed uth, who had in former times been loud in Septemb r 30. MCRGANSIA OCCUPIED BY OUR TROOPS. Since the occupation of Morgansia by onr orces, an outpost, consisting of the 26th In-liana, 19th Iowa, and about one hundred and under the command of Col. Leake. The cavally bad been posted about two miles in advance of the infantry, with instructions to across the Atchafalaya. The object of the post was simply to hold the rebels in check. DETAIL OF THE AFFAIR ON THE ATCHAFALAYA.

Yesterday about 4500 of the enemy, commanded by Gen. Greeu in person, crossed the Atchafalaya. They then divided into three detachments, and advanced on both flanks of Col. Leaks and the front of Mejor Montgemery. Moutgomery. After skirmishing sometime, with the Major, they brought a piece of artillery against him, and compelled him to full back. He attempted to join Colonel Leake, out was unable. After considerable skirmish ing, he succeeded in cutting his way out, with a loss of five men. About the same time that ces under Colonel Leake were taken comoletely by surprise, the enemy having nd-vanced within one hundred yards and opensel ato line of hattle, and the engagement soon is little detachment obstinately coates! After two gallant charges, in many of our bravest men fell, our icrees fell back behind a levee near by. Her the enemy pressed us so closely that our line hecame broken, and every man fought for

Just as our men were beginning to recover themselves, the third detachment, which had engaged Major Montgomery, appeared in our rear, and the whole of the enemy closed up in our force, thus completely surrounding them.
It was impossible for our men to stand the galling fire which was poured into them from every side and with the standard to the standard the standard to the stan every side, and, rather than surrender, the crder was given for every man to save himself as best he could. They were not slow in taking the hint, and broke for the bushes. A pertien of them succeeded in escaping, but the majority were taken prisoners. Among the latter were Col. Leake, reported wounded, and Lieutenant-Colonel Rose.

This short but furious engagement lasted about two hours, and for the fierceness with which it raged, in proportion with the forces engaged, has never been equilled. From the obstinucy which the superior force of the enemy encountered, they estimated our force to be at least two thousand, when in reality it was but a little over five hundred. This report is corroborsted by a number of persons who participated in the engagement, hat were afterward captured. A FLAG OF TRUCE FROM THE REBELS. Last night about seven o'clock, the rehels sent in a flag of truce, the object of which was a suspension of bostilities for Iwenty-tour bours, thus aff rding us an apportunity to bury our dead and provide for the wounded, which the rebels were unable to do.

A RENEWAL OF THE ATTACK EXPECTED. The bearer of the flag of truce intimated tion of a foolish fashion which attempts to reduce women once more to a hondage they who have lately fallen. The men are all in excellent spirits, and anxious to meet the rehels, but, with our present diminished force, we can only act on the defensive.

As is generally knowo, the work on the Lebanon extension has been under headway for some one past, and good progress has been made.

We presume that the extension of the Kenucky Central Railroad from Nicholasville to iterseet the Lebanoo extension at or near banville, has been abandoned, inasmuch as ne laborers, by this order, will be employed aclusively on the Lebanon extension to this exemsively on the Lebanon extension to this vicinity and southward. The fact that the genge of the Lexington and Frankfort and Frankfort and Louisville roads is being altered to that of the Kentucky Central and the Louisville and Nashville roads, is another ery strong evidence that it is the purpose of he Government to employ its full force upon the Lebanon extension and abandon entirely the other route.

HIBBITT & SON,

TUESDAY, OCT. 20, 1863.

The Chattanooga Rebel of the 9th inst., now published at Marietta, Georgia, says Rosecrans, upon reaching the Tennessee river from the field of Chickamauga, thus addressed his troops: "Fellow-soldiers, the object of our expedition was the possession of Chattanooga, and here we are!" This the Rebel thinks brief and to the point, forcible, true, and adroit, ss thus far the campaign has no clearer, and it certainly cannot have a more laconic history, and the Editor most luguhriously adds: "The few words of the Federal General illuminate the whole page as a ray from a dark somewhat painful glere which they throw could no longer he how to inflict injury upon full upon him. Not even General Bragg him- the enemy, but we must consider, too, how to self can contradict them, except with his secure ourselves. This, then, was the reason heeven to send us through his hands in the our many previous reverses, and at the slow few days of fair weather just before us. Un- progress of events where our arms had met open untoward dangers to our arms; the cause, accomplishment of great importance, but as a tended; and the end must fade out of sight | a man's hand eppeared upon the Western poin a rolling torrent of disasters-in fogs and litical horizon. Steadily it increased in its glooms." This certainly does not sound in proportions, and deepened in its dark and unison with the vaunting despatch of Bragg, sombre hues, until its shadow threatened to thanking God for a glorious victory, and it envelop us in darkness. There were low will be instructive for us to read the whole of murmurings of a storm-and why? Not the Rebel's article, which proceeds after this that the West was tired of the war, not that

At present the case stands about in this wise: We have lost the gate to lower East Trunessee, the river, which was our hase, and the facilities which these afforded for progressive movements into Middle Tecuessee and Kentucky. We have gained a hand-to-hand fight; we have repelled a powerful invasion; we have preserved Georgia and secured a commanding position around the enemy. Rosecrans, on the other hand, has acquired all that we have lost. He has reached quired all that we have lost. He has reached Chattanooga and fortified it, taken up the river line as his hase, and now prepares to winter quietly in his new quarters, leaving us uncivilly out in the cold to take care of oures as beet we can or must. Physically, and to all appearances, in the aggregate he is the gainer; tor after the prisoners, artillery, and standards taken at Chickamauga are counted, our victory is told, whilst our deficit, in the long sum iotal, glory included, does not make up tor any results yet achieved. In a word, we have lost ien or twelve thousand men with out receiving an equivalent in producing territory. The whole question, therefore, turns upon the situation and what we will do with i'. In military circles it is generally believed that Rosecrans has blundered into a position which, improved hy an adversary of genius, might be turned in three adroit movements to his eternal rain. If this be so, and the movements speculated, but by no means explained, are made, the victory of Chickamau-ga will be complete, and the many lives there sacrificed will become as so many trophies to a notle work. But if this opinion he false, or if the movements suggested as possible fail to be made, and we continue to gaze listlessly from the hald knobs of the Missionary Ridge apon the comfortable harracks of the blue variets below, then, theu may we tremble for the next campaign; for as sure as there is any surety in the future, the spring of '64 must see uded into any other belief!

can only supply them. Better give up the sea coast, hetter give up the Southwest, ay, fields whose grain and woof are onr sole hope. The enemy has just one army in the field too many for us. We must crush this overplus; we must gain one signal, Stonewall Jackson campaign. Destiny points the very place. Be Rosecrans the victim. Defeat him, pulverize him, run him to the Ohio river, and then close the war with the next summer. And how? Nothing easier. The hee which has really stung our flank for so long once disposed of our triumphant legions have a clear road before them. Fed sumptuously through the winter, well shod and clad, they have only to meet a dispirited foe, retake the Valley of the Mississeppi, secure the election of a peace Democrat to the Presidency in the l, and arrange the terms of treaty and inde pendence. These results can be accomplished nowhere else than in this Department. The Northwest is our real adversary. No matter how often we whip the East, the effect is still-born to the end. Let us teach the true contestants a lesson of peace and soherness, and the difference will be seen as speedily as our need calls for the deed. This lets us completely into the secret of the tucky. The rebel scene shifters in the stirextreme left wing on the Mississippi Northern Georgia and Tennessee, is a necessity to them, as they receive from that region

ing when it said: Situated as Rosecrane is, the victory that does not disperse or capture his whole army, is a lost opportunity. If he is permitted to hold Chaitanooga, then onr victory will he without profit, and we have only to mourn that so many brave men have died in vain, and chiefly that the gallant Hood has sealed his faith with his hlood. Rosecrans must not only he heaten in hattle, but he must he destroyed or driven from East Tennessee, otherwise the battle might as well not have been wise the battle might as well not have been fought. If this stronghold is not wrenched from bim now, it will hardly be hereafter. If he holds a point of roun is the holds a point of roun is the holds a point of roun is from holds it, he holds a point d'appui, from which he may at any moment strike at the very vitals of the Coufederacy. He holds a region pestilent with disaffection, that needs region pestilent with disaffection, that needs only the presence of a Yankee army to ripen into full-blown treason. He holds the country that must supply meat for our army, nitre for our powder-mills, and coal and iron for many of cur manufacturing establishments. The possession of that country is of indespensable necessity to us. It is the prize for which here is countrying. Until behave the property of the pr Bragg is contending. Until he has won it we can hut rejoice with fear and trembling over what he has done. Should he win, it will he the superhest achievement of the war.

Bragg'a pompous and exaggerated bulletin was having all its influence. But the extreme solicitude of the rebel organs teaches us what our dnty should be. We should and can reinforce Rosecrans as rapidly as Davis can strengthen Bragg. We must appreciate the fact that the rebels in despair have resolved to stake their all npon a cast, and we must not still more, and he is growing yet. Bold, assurance doubly sure by every means which fierce, energetic, and enduring, and as fearless

As the summer of 1863 opeucd upon us the eyes of the nation were fixed upon the Great West. Richmond was not ours. What has been the realization of all these encoursging pictures of renewed commercial and agricultural activity? The great advantages which our Generals have offered to the people by their heroic exertions and untiring energies heve been swept away by the dash of a pen. Absurd restrictions have been placed npon the trade down the rivers, and our steamboats, our merchants, and our producers are exactly where they were before the fall of Vicksburg and the opening of the Mississippi. We are glad to see that we have public men among us who are not afraid to cry out egainst these unfair restrictions. We are glad conspirators' hopes and fears, and admonishes | has not lost sight of the commercial importour Government of the desperate effort which | ence of the opening of the Mississippi in the will he made to winter in Tenuessee and Ken. | glorious blaze of the effect of military success. The struggle | that the commercial advantages of our milifor the repossession of Chattanooga will he a tary successes shall not be lost through the terrible one, for that place, commanding inattention or mismanagement of those in high office.

The Philadelphia Bulletin has a very nearly all their munitions of war and a large appreciative notice of General Thomas and proportion of their commissary stores. Their General Gordon Granger, which, in justice to expulsion from Tennessee was a damaging those gallant officers, we copy. "General blow, and the boast of Jeff Davis that he Thomas," says the Bulletin, "was known in would snatch it from the Yankees, if it took the old army as a respectable, hrave, and digthe combined armies of the South to accom- nified officer, and in the lower grades during plish it, shows how important he regards it. | the Florida and Mexican wars he did excel-The hurried moving of troops from all parts lent service. The Rich- mentioned are a clue to his conduct on both mond Whig of the 23d showed clearly and days of the terrible hattle. To his cool jndgment unmistakahly that the rebels had gained noth- and good sense we owe the judicious positions of his troops, and to the example of his own unflinching bravery we owe their stern resistance. If General Thomas does not renk among Generals of the highest class, he is every inch a soldier, and the country may confide in his loyal determination always to do, as he has always done, his best. Thie, wo hope, will not he regarded as faint praise; with a real admiration of his noble conduct, we wish to shield him in time from that iudiscriminate adulation which has done such injury to numhers of our excellent Generals already. Gen. Gordon Granger is a remakable type of a class known as developing men. When he was at West Point, a provincial lad, his comrades remember him as uncouth and awkward. When the Mexican war broke out they saw with astorishment the strange transformation of the rough country hoy, effected by the 'light of battle" shining in his face. THE STEAMER TARASCON .- The launch, on Saturday, of the fine steamer Tarascon, of the Louisville and Henderson packet line, was most successful. She glided into the water without aecident, and to-day sits npon Ohio's flood with that majestic beauty which characterizes all the floating palaces upon which the plastic impress of the mechanics of Louisville and her sister cities around the falls has been

There is a history connected with the naming of this boat which gives it n local interest a mau identified with the youth and the more mnture prosperity of the city, and one who wss, in his day, widely known as among the most enterprising of the husiness men of the West or Southwest. We refer to the late John A. Tarascon. The boat of Messrs. Sherley, Woolfolk, & Co., could not be named after a hetter man, nor one more worthy to be kept in remembrance by the merchants and steamboatmen of the West.

John A. and Louis Tarascon, brothers, came to this country from France during the troublous times that followed the beheading of Louis XVI. They were compelled to flee bere for safety. Lonis had been somewhat prominent in the revolution, it being his nature to seek excitement and prominence, m hile John A. was always quiet, reserved, and never meddled with politics. They settled first in Philadelphia, and from about 1790 to 1800 Louis was known as one of the largest shippers of that city. In 1800, the Tarascous established a shipyard at Pittsburg, under the agency of the well-known Anthony Beeling. Here they built four large ships, each three musts and lour hundred tons burden, which they loaded with American produce an I despatched to Europe, the vessels starting from Hamburg and other ports. When one of will attend to their wants. these vessels (either the Nanine or Tuscarora, we are uncertain which) arrived at Hamburg and reported herself, the authorities suspected semething wrong, and declared there was no such port known as Pittsburg; but they were convinced of their error when the Captain procured a map of the United States, and running his ger along the Gulf to New Orlean, up the Mis.issippi and Ohio rivers.

nted out the port of Pittsbur,", which had sent this first commercial messenger direct from an inlan i Americ in fort to Europe, inaugnrating a new era is the commerce of the world. But commercial enterprises, like lothers, have their reversions. So it was h this enterprise of the Tarascons, who, esceing the mighty commercial results which must follow the opening to the world of the trade of the Great West, had made this adventure, carnest in the trust that it was the inaugurative of a new era in the world's trade. These four vessels were, unfortunately, confiscated under the Berlin and Milan decrees, and were a total loss to Louis, who was principal owner in them. This hankrupted him, and thereafter the whole husiness of the brothers was conducted under the name and with the capital of John A. Taras-

About the time of the establishment of the business at Pittsburg by Beeling, the Tarascons also established at Shippingport, below this city, a large milling and commercial house, under the care and supervision of Jas. Berthood. A few years thereafter, the Tarons themselves settled at Shippingport, nd soon became leading and influential men mong the traders of this section. In all the transactions of this firm, the name of John A. Tarascon was known only on "'Change." He did business for many years la Louisville, was one of the largest traders of his day, and at times really controlled the produce market of the West.

John A. and Louis Tarascon married sisters-the Misses De la Ponte, nieces of Gabriel Louis de Colmesnil, who then live 1 in Trenton, N. J. In 1794, Louis Tarascon marricd Nanine De la Ponte, and John A. shortly ofter merried her sister, Maria Elizabeth. Another sister married Hon, W. M Simonds. then Secretary of War, and still another Gov. Churchell, of Jamsica. John A. Tarascon had four children, two sons and two daughters, one of the latter, Nanine, marrying Capt Z. M. Sherley, of this city.

The brothers Tarsscon were men of strongly marked characters. John A. was plain and unostentatious in manners, sensitive, confiding and generous, and withal a man of a nice sense of honor and most sterling integrity. Like all others of our early pioneers, the scons had their reverses. John A. ined largely in the celebrated "Yazoo Claim," and his losses were heavy. His energy and enterprise soon overcame those losses, and he died in possession of a handsome competence. The early works on the navigation of the and Mississippi, and Butler's Kentucky norable mention of the Tarascons. e them a place among the distinguished picneers of Western commerce. Mesars, Sher-Iey, Woolfolk, & Co. have done well to perpetuate the name in their new and heautiful steamer. That she may have as prosperous a career as the illustrious merchant and trader. whose name she bears, we most earnestly wish.

IMPROVEMENT IN DENTISTRY .- Vulcanite, as a base for artificial teeth, may be said to have passed the ordeal, and its utility in the dental art to have become established. While it presesses many advantages over motal plates, it is not wholly without objections, the principal one of these heing its bulkiness. This heretofore unavoidable objection is entirely overcome by a recent improvement (which overcome by a recent improvement (which has been natented by Dr. J. A. Their their was a perfect text, their place. retieat was a perfect rout, their men deserting retieat was a perfect tout, their men deserting and streggling over the country. I pursued them with great vizor, but, their horses being better than mine, I was only able to come up with two regiments at Sugar Creek, left there to detain me. I made n charge on them, eapturing some 500 and scattering the remainder in the nountains. I reached the river, and I found that they had all crossed at a ford three miles above Sam's Ferry. I never saw troops more demoralized. I am swisfied their loss in this raid was not less than 2,000. No fears need be entertained of their making another
